19 I, hereby apply for a court order granting me
20 permission to file documents under Local rule 7-102.5.

21 All declarations supporting and responding to a Request for Order, a Domestic Violence 22 Restraining Order (DVRO), and an Elder Abuse Restraining Order (EARO) must comply with 23 California Rules of Court, Rule 5.111. A party shall be permitted to file no more than one (1) 24 declaration in support of or in response to a Request for Order, and one (1) reply declaration (in 25 response to the responsive declaration is permitted if necessary.) No additional declarations 26 (surrebuttal) may be filed until the matter has been continued for a review hearing 60 days or more 27 from the date the matter was initially heard. In such cases, declarations should raise only issues not raised in previous filings. Any evidentiary documents attached to declarations shall not exceed 10 pages in length. However, a party may apply to the court ex parte with notice of the application to the other parties for permission to submit additional pages. The requested additional pages shall not be attached to the separate ex parte application. The ex parte application shall list and describe the requested additional attachments separately, state the exact reasons why each additional attachment is relevant and necessary, and must comply with California Rules of Court, Rule 5.151. Without this prior approval, the court will not consider any attachments exceeding 10 pages or multiple declarations. Parties should not attach copies of pleadings already contained in the Court file to any new pleading. This rule shall not apply to discovery motions. (Rev 07/01/2023)
